13 Tipos de falacias argumentativas

MAR 11

Publicado por Ciencia y Espiritu

Las falacias son razonamientos erróneos o falsos, puede incurrirse en ellos por ignorancia o voluntariamente, como un modo de convencer mediante la razón. Las falacias pueden clasificarse de la siguiente manera:

1. A- Descalificación: desacreditar un argumento, descalificando a la persona que lo formula

(<http://labunquede2013.files.wordpress.com/2013/11/falaculm-falacia1.png>)1. Ataque personal directo (Ad Hominem-Ofensivo): descalificar la personalidad del oponente. Ej: "No debemos escuchar lo que él propone, todos sabemos que es homosexual". La opción sexual de una persona no afecta en nada su credibilidad y no tiene relación alguna con la aceptabilidad de un punto de vista.

Texto argumentativo definición. Textos argumentativos para niños. Textos argumentativos. Definición de argumentativo.

If you're a student and at your university you were asked to write a argumentative text, you came to the right place. In this post we tell you what it is and what its main features are. In addition, we will give you tips for writing this type of text, so, accompany us with reading and take note. What is a argumentative text about? One argumentative text is the one who seeks to defend and convince the interlocutor of an idea or opinion. Argument means to provide evidence in order to verify that opinion, idea or hypothesis. There are many argumentative resources and techniques that collaborate with the objective of persuading the recipient. Thus, the issuer of that message will succeed if he can make the interlocutor change his position or attitude towards the ideas raised. On the other hand, a argumentative (oral or written) text is always addressed to someone, even if it is not fully explicit. Therefore, the dialogical character is inherent in the argumentative texts. Continue reading that show, step by step, all the aspects you have to take into account when writing an argumentative text AVANCE Where does it start with the argumentative structure? This type of text follows a more or less fixed structure consisting of three moments. Then we tell you what each one of them is about.1. Choice of the topic and research work The author of the text should think about what he wants to write, what his posture is about that topic and what argumentative tools he should use. Shooting questions can be: what do I think of this? Why do I have this opinion on it? Do I have anything to do with this? It is always useful that in order to cover any topic it is necessary to know thoroughly the topic treated; furthermore, it is necessary to investigate existing positions. This means, to achieve good argumentation, it is necessary to have all possible information. In this sense, it is convenient to examine what impact has the chosen issue. In other words, what is political is; This is because, in most cases, argumentative texts refer to a current and frequent issue. In the text, also, the possible opposite positions to which it is affirmed are explained; This is done in order to refute them and re-certify the validity of the sustained. More ahead we will return to this in detail. Investigates what has already been theorized about the Tuna, forgot that, to address well a thematic, it is necessary to carry out an exhaustive investigation. To discuss with other points of view, it is necessary to know what other people have talked about the subject, when and do they have done so, reliable (whether libraries or digital portals). The conductive thread of work is the thesis. The thesis is the central idea that is defended so that the reader changes his mind regarding the subject. The thesis is constantly demonstrated through argumentative resources and is explanatory from the first moment. The recipients of the text must know from the beginning how much it is the position of the writing. Therefore, before you start writing an argumentative text you have to have a decision taken with respect to the subject. A important aspect for every editor is to identify the recipients of him. It is necessary to have defined quiénes will be the text receptors, so, the author could write adjusty to that point and, in this way, his argumentation It will be more effective for its purpose. Identifying the recipients implies studying the group that we want to receive the message. Only we can choose the appropriate argumentative resources to move to the public, en una secuencia de partes coherente. Este orden tiene que estar al servicio del objetivo de hacer cambiar de opinión a los destinatarios del texto. Por este motivo, hay que estudiar muy bien qué recursos utilizar y en qué orden conviene ubicarlos para lograr convover, convencer y persuadir al lector. La organizaci3n de un discurso, adem4s de aportar claridad, puede volver al texto m4s serio y convincente. Esto es v4lido ya sea que se trate de un texto escrito o de un discurso oral.3A Redacci3n del texto argumentativoSi se trata de un texto escrito, el tercer paso es propiamente la redacci3n seg4n se estipul3 en los puntos anteriores. Es esencial una buena redacci3n para que el texto logre su prop3sito. Si el escritor realiz3 una investigaci3n muy eficiente pero no supo redactar correctamente por escrito sus ideas y argumentos, ese texto fracasara. Los textos argumentativos siguen una forma a la que es necesario ajustarse. La correcta expresi3n oral y escrita, el c4mo se dice y la forma del mensaje son tan importantes como el contenido del texto en s4 mismo. Es importante incluir en este paso, la instancia de correcci3n del texto.Introducci3n y desarrollo y conclusi3n del texto argumentativoUna vez que el autor del texto cuenta con la informaci3n necesaria para la redacci3n, tiene que atender al orden estipulado para este tipo de textos.A continuaci3n, te contamos qu4 es lo que debes tener en cuenta en cada una de las partes generales de la estructura de un texto argumentativo. A saber: Introducci3n, Desarrollo y Conclusi3n.1. Introducci3nEn la introducci3n, el autor explica de qu4 se trata su trabajo. Consiste en la presentaci3n del tema y de la postura que se defiende, es decir, de la tesis. La introducci3n es importante porque es el primer anuelo que capta la atenci3n del lector. Con una buena introducci3n, las posibilidades de que el lector contin4e leyendo aumentan odinefndol racreca ed nif le noc setnajemes sotneme sod ertne sedutillims nocelbatse es y narapmoc eSaAgolana rop otnemugra,rotua led siset al razrofer y radiilar arap ovris otnemugra etsE odnatart yotse euq amet led ortned daditrotua anu a aicnererfer ecach es o atic eSdaditrotua ed otnemugra,otxet la n4Aisicerp agroto sotpeocny y saedi rinfedDn4Aicimifed rop otnemugra.selhavresbo sabeurp ne nasab es euq y soternoc sobech nacilpxe euq solleuqAohceh ed otnemugra:savitatnemugra saigetartse sal noc sodalucniv n4Atse ,zev al a ,euq sotnemugra ed sopit sol n4Aaicuninoc a somereVotxet nu ed sotnemugra ed sopif.savitatnemugra saigetartse sal ogeuj ne nartne ednod se 4AuqA 13AA ed ohcevorp euqas es euq arenam ed otnemugra ese renopxe arap amitp4 amrof al rasnep euq yah ,siset al somerednefed lauc le noc odinetnoc le ,riced se ,somerazlitu euq sotnemugra sol odigele somayah euq zev anU.n4AAnipjo ed oibmac roiretso la y siset al ed n4Aaicamrfinoc al a acuzdnoc ol euq otnemanozar ed oesocp nu rop rotcel la raiug arap dadiralc noc y dadidunorp ne esrayalpxe ebod rotua le ,otxet led opreuc o ollorrased le nE ,rotcel la revomnoc arap setneinevnoc sovitatnemugra sosrucer y saviruscid saigetartse sal sadot a errucer es ednod se 4AuqA 4A.ebircese neiuq eneitnam euq arutso al racilpxe y renopxe ,ragelpsed acsub es ,riced sE ,siset al ed dadicarev al natatsnoc euq sotnemugra odnad rotua le rop sadinetso saedi e senoipino sal natnemadnuf y notabed ,nedneifed es otxet led etrap atse nEollorrased D .2.saedi sal rallorased arap n4Aaicces al se on n4Aaicudortni al.oj bart led dadilani f aL .aedi ase ednefed es y ebircese es lauc le rop ovitom :sovitejB0.odamot nah arutso p 4Auq y amet etse odatart nah ay sen4Auq :setnedecetnA,jsacir4Aet sesab(areibuh sal is ,sadalusnoc setneuf sal ed n4AaicaticilpxE.aralac arenam ed siset al ed n4AaicatneserP.oj bart ed siset4Aapil al ed y amet led n4AaicatneserP.n4Aaicamrofini etneugis al esriliarni ebeD Reader. Exemplification argument The thesis by means of examples. Sometimes, it happens when the writer mentions possible objections or other opinions other than his in order to refute them and unveil their falsehood. Argument by concession concession linked to the previous point. Sometimes, only one part of the point of view of the other is accepted to, later, to question other aspects considered more relevant. It does not necessarily exist. It is about affirming something opposite to what is intended, considering that the public will understand that it is an irony. This resource, as is evident, is more frequent in oral argumentative discourses. Cause-concentration argues shows the correlation between two causally linked elements. That is, the causes and the consequence of linked facts are presented. Argument by experience mentions an experience that demonstrates the veracity of the thesis. This argument provides an endless component, since, in general, it is that the author of the text shares a personal situation with the recipient, trying to create complicity and identification, whose purpose is not an response from the reader, but to give the occasion to argue and reflect on the subject. Statistic data argument are used to provide concrete, reliable and specific information about the sustained thesis. They give an objective and reliable tone. Sweetheart by deduction That is, the particular conclusion is inferred from a general premise. The aforementioned and explained ways. Arguments that appeal to readers arguments can also be subordinated to the intention of the author of the text. One of the main functions of argumentative texts is the appellation function. What does this mean? Thus, an appellation function of language will have the objective to influence the receiver's behavior. In sum, what is sought is to move, challenge, modify the reader. Therefore, we can talk about arguments that appeal to emotion. For example, if we know what the receiver is moved, we will give an argument for experience or for example, which raises a specific feeling in the recipient. This emotionality, in the 4mbito of the tasks of the discourse, is called pathos, taf4 rmino Greek that means passion the forecast of future objections. The author of a text may include the arguments of the people who are not in accordance with his thesis to, thus defend himself and return to affirm his idea. This gives the text firmness, consistency and reliability. In addition, this technique demonstrates that the author has read and is informed about the different perspectives that exist on their subject. Lingaves lingu s of discursive resources, there are other elements lingaf44stico that must be known to give our text more solvency. Let's look at some of them: Starting words have as functioning other words, phrases or statements within the same p4 boy. In addition, they have a semi-important function, since they establish significance relationships between the different parts of a text. The sentences must be literally linked. It will be given a different meaning to that relationship. The use of connectors causes the writing to be more fluid. In this way, the use of these words benefits reading and facilitates the understanding of the text. In addition, of the correct grammatical and orthographic writing, the good use of connectors also gives quality to the text. The most used connectors will be the explanatory ones, those of cause and consequence and the computers. Other ling4ses lingaf4stic resources for the writing of argumentative texts We continue to see other types of lingaf44stics resources to write an argumentative text in excellent way. Talk about degrees of subjectivity. In argumentative texts, subjectivity is evidenced since we know the opinion of who writes. It is not intended the objectivity that other types of texts demand (such as scientists, for example). Thus, well-used, the words that reveal the author's opinion can be 4f4tiles for argumentation. Let's look at two of them: the subjectivemase can be adjective, nouns, verbs and any other subjective expression. These words or expressions demonstrate the valuation that who writes does. One of the general classifications is the one that divides subjective ones into two groups: nominal and verbal. They demonstrate the author's emotional attitude, for example: 4 4 4 4 They refer to an evaluation made by those who write in front of a fact, person or situation. It can be an axiological trial (value judgment) or not. For example: 4 4 4 4 His house is a cave Subjectivity brands. For example: 4 4 4 4 my instead of yelling, yell. The fashioners: these words signal the author's attitude towards his message. There are fashioners of certainty (obviously, without doubt), of falsehood (in no way, it is not true that), of doubt (probably, perhaps, it is possible) and of appreciation (happily, surprisingly, unfortunately).3. ConclusionIn the conclusion of a argumentative text, the author is expected to recapture the above in order to synthesize the most important points. But it is a mistake to think that the conclusion is only the summary of what has already been said. In this section, the author must come to new reflections on the subject he is discussing. The central thing is that the thesis must be confirmed and reinforced. In addition, this part of the text can be used to write future topics of other debates related to the exposed topic.Utility of the argumentative textIt is usual that in schools the reading and writing of the argumentative texts are encouraged. This is because the argument is a discretionary tool that serves many ambitions of life, not just when writing. For example, in an oral debate, in a speech, discussion or exchange with someone, in a job interview, in a defense of a university job, etc. Discursive strategies allow a person to unravel better in oral and written ways.Also, all the tools and resources we explain help people to express what they mean more accurately and, finally, it is also possible to exercise cognitive skills.Types to make a argumentative text.We will show you some good advice so that you can correctly write your argumentative text.
